

SEEK RESTRICTIONS
TO BAR FOREIGNERS

IMMIGRATION BILLS AND LITERACY TESTS SUBJECTS OCCUPYING WILSON AND HOUSE.

PINDELL REFUSES POST

Peoria Editor Declines Ambassadorship to Russian Court Owing to Unpleasant Controversy.

Washington, Feb. 2.—President Wilson regards it as universally agreed that there should be some restriction to prevent what is known as "assisted immigration." He has not announced his position on the literacy test feature of pending immigration bills and indicated today that he would not do so until consulted by leaders in congress. The senate committee on immigration has announced that it will seek the president's advice in the matter.

Gets Many Views.
The president has been giving audience of late to many interested in that phase of immigration legislation and there is said to be some ground for the belief that he may suggest certain modifications in the literacy test as now proposed.

The Burnett immigration bill prescribing a literacy test was brought forward again in the house.

A motion by Representative Sabath of Illinois to eliminate the proposed test, pending when the house adjourned Saturday night, was the immediate business under construction.

Secretary Wilson of the department of labor informed congress today that he was not opposed to the principle of the literacy test. He recommended the making of the immigration bill more drastic in several particulars, especially in regard to "white slavery," and that skilled laborers imported under contracts as well as unskilled laborers be barred.

Provision to bar aliens who have committed a crime or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, whether convicted or not, and to deport aliens committing crimes in this country also was asked. Of one million, seventeen thousand immigrants who came in during 1913, 1% were Asiatics, he reported, and added that of the total 24% would be barred by a literacy test.

House democrats will caucus tomorrow night on the party policy toward the Baker bill for the exclusion of the Asiatics.

Pindell Declines Post.
Henry M. Pindell of Peoria, Ill., who recently was nominated and confirmed ambassador to Russia, has declined the appointment, according to a letter to the president made public to the White House today.

Mr. Pindell wrote President Wilson that although he had investigated accusations in connection with his appointment, he felt nevertheless that no controversy of any kind should surround the appointment of any ambassador as it was liable to be misunderstood abroad.

The president in a letter of regret, accepted Mr. Pindell's declination.

Gets Few Responses.
President Wilson is surprised at the lack of response from business men to the invitation for suggestions on pending trust legislation and that so few have accepted the invitation to appear at congressional hearings.

The president does not know whether the business men of the country approve the tentative measure as drawn whether they have not yet taken notice of the hearings.

When it was suggested to the president today that business men might fear being branded as "lobbyists," if they came to Washington in that connection, Mr. Wilson remarked that no one could be regarded as a lobbyist who came by invitation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Hiram of this city. The telegram was sent from Candle, Alaska, where the body of William H. Myers, her brother, was found.

Beyond the statement of the death, no particulars of the death were given. Mr. Myers was the noted placer miner and had extensive holdings in gold and coal mines about Candle and White Horse passes. For fifteen years he operated in Alaska where he met a Kentucky girl who went in to teach school. Myers was planning to emerge from the wilderness with a view of marrying the young teacher. The girl is thought to be in Seattle now.

WORKING WOMEN IN APPEAL FOR BALLOT

Delegates From Eastern States Call on President for His Aid. But Are Given No Satisfaction.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Clad in frocks of simple creation, representative of their trades, 400 women workers from ten eastern states, intent upon enlisting the support of the nation's chief executive for the votes, for women suffrage, received today by President Wilson at the White House. They were led by Miss Margaret Hinchey, laundry worker of New York and Miss Rose Winslow, a Pennsylvania weaver, who as designated speaker, appealed to the president to assist the movement for women suffrage by lending his influence to the efforts to establish a public committee on woman suffrage.

It was the second time the president had been brought face to face with the suffrage question in an official way and his attitude toward the petition of the women already was known. He holds that he cannot urge legislation upon congress that he has not seen the subject of "organic party consideration."

This was what he told the officers of the National American Woman Suffrage association two months ago. He made it clear that he had already expressed himself in favor personally of the creation of a house committee on suffrage and had so informed a member of the house of representatives who had asked him his personal opinion. When his personal opinion was asked by those who were cooperating with him the president said he freely gave it, but as the spokesman of the democratic party he could not speak officially until there had been "organic consideration."

The suffragists marched upon the White House today from the public square, banners and streams flying, after holding a large meeting at which speakers stirred their enthusiasm to a high pitch. Represented in the line were New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, West Virginia, Maryland, Rhode Island and the District of Columbia.

MOORISH TRIBESMEN
DEFEATED IN BATTLE

Spanish Troops Rout Rebellious Moors from Positions After Day's Siege—Heavy Losses.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Tetuan, Morocco, Feb. 2.—Hundreds of Moorish tribesmen fell in a stubbornly contested battle with a column of Spanish troops on Friday at Beni-Salem south of this town. The Spanish forces reported their own losses as four officers and twenty-two men, and four officers and one hundred and sixty men. The Moorish tribesmen took up strong positions in the rocky hillsides and ravines at Beni-Salem.

The fighting began at an early hour Thursday and continued through the day. The Moors holding their positions with great tenacity. They were finally forced to retreat, leaving a large portion of their number dead or wounded on the field.

ANNUAL MEETING OF COMMERCIAL CLUB

Will Be Held This Evening at the Myers Hotel—Interesting Program Arranged.

This evening the annual meeting of the Commercial club, including the election of directors for the coming year, will be held at the Myers Hotel following the supper which will be served at seven-fifteen. Most interesting program has been arranged for, including addresses by several speakers of note. This noon the regular weekly meeting of the directors of the organization was held at the Myers. James Field, the president, presiding.

No business of importance was transacted and Dr. William J. H. Boetcker favored those present with a half hour talk. Dr. Boetcker represents the National Inside Association of America and in referring to the growth of a city said that "blowing of the city" was not a sufficient way to make the community grow. One man outside of the city saying good words for it was worth more than all the blowing from the inside of the city. The factories of a city were the money-producers, all else was secondary in this connection. The home is the bulwark of all communities and the boys and girls were its real asset. "Every person should have the feeling that they owe much to the city in which they live. They should be conscious of it at all times and do more for it than just secure the money there is to be made." The brief talk demonstrated Dr. Boetcker's ability to handle a subject which means much to the country and which he believes will undergo a change of thought in the next five years.

EXPRESS COMPANIES
PLAN NEW CAMPAIGNS

Uniform Lower Rates for Express Effective Today—Plan New Rate System.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Feb. 2.—The new system of interstate express rates on a scale 16 per cent lower than those formerly prevailing, became effective today under orders issued by the interstate commerce commission.

On the same basis of decrease in rates the states of Maine, Vermont, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Delaware, West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, New Jersey, Illinois and Louisiana are putting into force a new system of interstate express business.

The new intra-state rates are based on a block system, the country being divided into 826 blocks, formed by the intersections of the meridians of longitude and parallels of latitude.

First and second class charges are based upon rates of one hundred pounds. Third class rates are one cent for two ounces not to exceed first class rates.

Another important feature of the new express system now in force is that every express office in the United States is able to determine and quote a rate to every other express office in the United States. A company effective today, Heretofore each company used a separate form of receipt.

BUILD SHORT CANAL TO PROTECT BOATS

To Construct Ditch Between Bays; Cutting Nantuxes—Shoals Dangerous to Shipping.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Sandwich, Mass., Feb. 2.—The Cape Cod canal, the construction of which even the Pilgrim fathers saw would save the sand peninsula and Nantuxes from the perils of the sea, is to become a reality within the next six months. The six mile ditch connecting Cape Cod Bay with Buzzards Bay is three-fourths completed, and the waters of the two bays will meet during the summer.

When first opened, the canal will not be sufficiently deep to allow full-powered vessels to pass through. However, it will be made of greater depth. In addition to dredging considerable blasting will be necessary at the Buzzards Bay entrance before it can be thrown open to coastwise shipping.

The Great Home
Month
In the Stores

Merchandising custom has made February the great "Home Month."

Read the advertising of the merchants these days in the live daily newspapers like The Gazette and you will see how vigorously the stores are pressing their offers of goods that have to do with the furnishing of the home.

Wise homemakers have long since learned the advantage of planning their purchasing along with the tides of the season. It is the policy of "taking advantage of the market" applied to domestic affairs.

Every member of the family—big or little, is interested in the home. So at no season of the year is advertising of greater importance than right now.

Those who follow the mercantile announcements in their daily newspapers will be certain to buy more goods than those who merely shop in a haphazard manner.

SLAVERS CAPTURE
VICTIMS IN AUTO

Police Unable to Stop Racing Machine of "White Slavers" Through Crowded Streets.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Feb. 2.—New York police are making a thorough search for the identity of a gang of white slave operators who are evading the authorities in their raids for the past two months. On Saturday night members of the gang rode through principal streets of Greater New York defying the police. No trace could be found of them or who their victims were.

The escape was made in a big black touring car which dashed at breakneck speed down Eighth Avenue. In it were two young girls and they stood up in the swaying car, yelling for help.

"For God's sake, rescue us," a passer-by heard one of the girls say. A policeman heard the screams, and stopped in the middle of the street, signaling with his white gauntlet and for the chauffeur to stop. The wave of the policeman's hand usually stops automobiles. But it did not stop this one. The chauffeur, swerving his onrush, fired a shot at the policeman, slaying him. His murderous onslaught was so nearly effective that the policeman was hurled into an iron pillar and seriously hurt, but he managed to fire a shot at the racing automobile in a vain effort to puncture a tire.

Another policeman a block away heard the shot, and planted himself in the street to intercept the black automobile with its passengers. The chauffeur tried to run him down, but the policeman leaped aside and managed to get a foot-hold on the foot-board of the racing car. A sharp kick sent the flying vehicle into the curb, and the policeman and sent him sprawling. He managed to fire two shots at the car, but missed.

Clearing a taxicab, the second policeman set off in pursuit of the black automobile firing six or eight shots at its tires. Other policemen, hearing the shots tried to stop the car, but almost lost their lives for their efforts. As with its flying auto, the fashionable St. Nicholas Avenue every policeman who saw it shot at the tires and many citizens, hearing the hub-bub, turned out and tried to stop the automobile. The car, though, distanced all pursuers, dodged all bullets and disappeared into the night. All this happened in the heart of New York's residential district but the girls, doubtless white slave victims, were completely swallowed up.

CURTIS INTERESTED IN OCEAN FLIGHT

American Aviator Declares Atlantic Ocean Will Be Conquered by Aeroplanes by Coming Summer.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Paris, Feb. 2.—Glenn Curtis, while here in the interests of his flying boat, states that he considered it extremely probable that the Atlantic would be crossed by an aeroplane in the course of the next summer. He knows of several who are preparing for the attempt.

Pressed for details Curtis admitted that he personally is interested in the attempt to be made and that he has been asked to supply the engine for the machine of another aviator, who, he says, has splendid chances of success. He personally favors landing in the water, on route, and taking supplies from a liner, though the other person proposes to make a non-stop flight from shore to shore in 36 hours.

It is understood that at least three French aeroplane builders are preparing for the conquest of the Atlantic, but they are keeping their plans dark. Both Garros and Pégon say it is perfectly feasible to cross the ocean in an aeroplane but Garros says a modified type of machine will be necessary, none of the existing models being capable of the job.

During the Spanish-American war he was watch officer on board the U. S. S. Nevada and participated in the blockade and bombardment of Santiago. He is to assume charge of the Naval academy on February 2.

BRYAN AND BURLESON
FIERCELY ASSAILED

Spanish War Veterans Claim Grievance Against Secretary of State—Michigan Scores Postmaster.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—Two of President Wilson's cabinet officers, Secretary of State Bryan and Postmaster General Burleson, were fiercely assailed here last week.

Spanish War Veterans raised a storm of bitter criticism against Mr. Bryan because he requested that the annual memorial services over the Maine dead in Arlington National Cemetery be discontinued, on the ground that the services do not help to cement the friendly relations between the United States and Spain.

Not only have the veterans scathingly denounced Bryan's request, which was put in the shape of a "suggestion" from state department officials, but they have contemptuously ignored the frequent appeals of the Spanish War Veterans, who are preparing to hold the exercises as usual.

The veterans declare that Bryan, though he was colonel in the Spanish war, was only a "political colonel," who never saw a gun fired or faced an enemy in the whole conflict.

Burleson's critics claim that the Michigan contingent of the "original Wilson men" legion voiced its complaint against the spoils distribution of Postmaster General Burleson through James Schermerhorn, publisher of the Detroit Times, at the annual banquet of the Michigan Association.

Mr. Schermerhorn, himself a very "original Wilson man," enayed the role of "The Man From Home" and fired pointed shafts into the administration for favoring, in the distribution of offices, the Michigan machine which Schermerhorn and his friends fought in order to win delegates for Wilson.

E. O. Wood, democratic national committeeman for Michigan, was among those present and one of the principals aimed at by Schermerhorn. Mr. Wood, who also spoke, took no notice of Mr. Schermerhorn's attack on his machine.

Carrying For the Donkey.
"Receiving the man who claims to hail from home," he said, "at the seat of national government, is a more or less of a farce, and if we have aspirations above a seat in the visitors' gallery, a peep at the Washington Monument, or a place in line at a presidential reception."

There are a number of cases on record where men from home who were well and favorably known in the conventions and campaigns, haven't been recognized at all at the national capital, either in the twilight zone or out of it.

To the small boy who carried water for the elephant all day and then is unable to stand the man who promised to carry a giraffe in Baltimore. It is Mr. Schermerhorn—compared "Grownups who fetch and carry for the democratic donkey," which has grown quite attenuated from enforced economy.

As the scenario of a moving picture drama in three films, Schermerhorn sketched the fight of the original Wilson men. The first film was described as a record of the Wilson administration in politics, but who were zealous in the cause of progressive democracy and willing to fight the strong state machine, which was working for Harmsworth in Baltimore. In another "film" Mr. Schermerhorn described a conference in the office of the postmaster general on patronage questions.

Lesson of Horatius.
"I'll be glad to listen to you," he quoted the postmaster general saying, "but let us bear in mind before you begin that these are only so many of the things that have happened since from Macaulay's heroic ballad, 'Horatius at the Bridge,' which closes with a description of the monument reared by grateful Rome to Horatius, he continued."

"There are observed that the recognition and rewards did not go to the reactionaries, Lars Porcena and False Sextus, but to the original Wilson men, Horatius, Hercules, and the like. Neither the lay of ancient Rome nor the lay of the land in Michigan may have been pondered by the postmaster general, although he was there helping the progressive democrats combat the organization in 1912."

TERRITORY AROUSED
OVER HARD SERVICES

Native Troops Suffer Severely From Hard Service in French Army in Europe.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Basse Terre, Guadeloupe, Feb. 2.—The widespread indignation against the French government was aroused here today by the arrival from St. Nazaire on the French liner Champagne of one hundred and four invalid soldiers belonging to Guadeloupe. They had all been crippled through having to serve in the winter in France. More than twenty others died from exposure during their period of service there. The steamer continued her voyage with two hundred other native soldiers belonging to Martinique on board who had been discharged as infirm from the same cause.

M. Gratien Candace, who represents Guadeloupe in the French chamber of deputies, is bitterly assailed by the native colonists as it was he who urged the French government to call the native recruits to the colors during the winter season.

WAGE FIERCE BATTLE
IN HAITIEN WARFARE

RIVAL REVOLUTIONARY LEADERS ENGAGED IN A BITTER STRUGGLE.

REPORT CITY ON FIRE

Meager Details From Crews of Naval Vessels State That Gonaves Is Burning—Complain of Foreign Troops.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Porte au Prince, Feb. 2.—Sharp fighting has occurred at Gonaves between the followers of the two rival revolutionary leaders, Gen. Davilmar Theodore and Gen. Aureste Zamor, formerly government delegates at Haiti.

Battle Details Meager.
Only the most meager details were obtainable today about the battle. These came from the crews of the Haitian naval vessels which were in the roadstead of Gonaves and which left hurriedly as soon as the firing started.

The war craft arrived here today and their officers assert that they saw flames rising over a wet area giving reason for the belief that the city of Gonaves had been set on fire.

The German cruiser Vineta left immediately for Gonaves to investigate. General Theodore who announced several days ago that he would take supreme command of the rebels, was understood to be marching with his followers on the capital. His rival, General Zamor, was reported to have left Gonaves for the same destination at the head of a body of revolutionaries.

Want Marine Withdrawn.
A demand for the withdrawal of the German and American blackships and marines from the Haitian coast was presented today to the members of the foreign diplomatic corps by the citizens' committee of public safety.

The committee points out that perfect tranquility has prevailed for some time in the capital and therefore there is no necessity for the further presence of foreign troops.

The Port authorities forbade the landing of a party of sixteen revolutionaries who arrived here yesterday on board the German steamer Sardinia. Among them were General Horelle Monplaisir, former minister of war and of the interior, and former Haitian minister at Washington. The Sardinia later left for Jamaica with the exiles still on board.

Reports From South.
Reports from the south indicate serious disturbances there. Squads of government troops have executed a number of leading revolutionaries at the ports of Aux Cayes and Aquin. Among those killed was a prominent politician.

General Darigues, the military governor of the Southern provinces, is acting with vigor and suppressing with a strong hand all attempts at a revolutionary outbreak.

WORK ON JEWEL TOWER FOR PANAMA EXPOSITION

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
San Francisco, Feb. 2.—Work started here today on the Tower of Jewels, the 430 foot structure, which will stand near the main entrance to the Panama Pacific Exposition. It is estimated that 250 days will be required for its completion. The total cost of the structure will be $400,000. The ground area of the tower will be 22,500 feet. The tower will stand in the main group of palaces on the approach to the "Court of the Sun and Stars." It will be approximately square on the ground level, rising in several receding stories and built with narrowing walls of colored marble and sculpture to the summit. Several sculptured figures of heroic proportions will surround the top story, which will be circular. The tower with the facades of the different stories, the building pendant jewels, glistening with iridescence from hidden searchlights, will be one of the most beautiful and decorative features of the exposition.

HERE'S MAN WHO BEAT "UNCLE JOE"

Frank T. O'Hair.

Frank T. O'Hair, the new Democratic congressman from the Eleventh Illinois district, never before held a public office, but he defeated "Uncle Joe" Cannon for congress at the last election. He is to have strong competition for re-election, for Uncle Joe says he will "come back."

Mr. O'Hair was born in the district he represents and is forty-four years old. Not long after he was elected in Washington and wanting to really represent his constituents, he wrote to most of the voters in his district and asked their wishes. One of his replies read:

"Frank T. O'Hair: If you don't know any more than I can tell you, you had better resign and come back."

GINK AND DINK—WHEN PETEY GETS WHAT HE WANTS DOESN'T WANT IT.

Sport Snap Shots

Larry McLean, the Giant catcher, is a great little kiddie. He loves to have his joke. Not long ago he had occasion to write to the national commission as follows: "Dear Commission: It is my pleasure to inform you that the St. Louis club came across with that $600. Wishing you a happy new year. Happy New Year is great stuff to hand the national commission right about now. With the Federals cutting high jinks and one thing or another the national commission feels that it has seen appier years.

Willie Ritchie has recently come to bat with a suggestion that will make a hit with all those who are eager to grab his crown. Willie says that he thinks it would be only reasonable to have every title holder sign a written agreement to defend his title in an active manner while he holds it, rather than run away and hide it once it is his. According to Ritchie's notion, the title holder should be made to engage in a championship bout at least once every six months and if he should fail to do this the title should fall to the most likely challenger. Willie's hunches are all mighty good, but it's unlikely that they would work at present. It would be hard to get all promoters and boxers to live up to rulings of that sort and until the day comes when there is some sort of a national commission in charge of fistie affairs, these things will hardly come to pass.

There seems to be a prevalent notion among fight fans that there is a big demand for referees who know how to call a halt to fouling. Not only in the East, but also throughout the West and Middle West, there has been a little too much of the rough tactics in the fight game. And referees are coming to regard it as somewhat to be expected and are letting fouling go by practically unnoticed. Quite a few present-day boxers have reached the point where it is almost second nature with them to hit low when they are being rushed pretty hard. If an offender were warned the first time and fined or disqualified the second time, considerable might be done in cleaning up the rough angles of the game.

THREE BOUTS STAGED IN EASTERN STATES

Kilbane vs. Moy at Philadelphia, Chip Battles Houck in Ohio and Levinsky Fights Flynn.

Philadelphia, Feb. 2.—Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, meets Eddie Moy, of Pennsylvania, here tonight at the Olympia A. A. in a six-round bout. Kilbane fought out a few weeks ago at the same club, in the fourth round. Moy claimed he was not in tip-top shape and was given another try to knock the featherweight crown from Kilbane's brow. The title-holder is expected to win.

Bouts at Youngstown. Youngstown, Ohio, Feb. 2.—For the first time since January 6, when the lid on local boxing was shut down hard and tight, local fight fans tonight will see the re-opening of the game with two star bouts that are of nationwide interest. The more important of the two will be between George Chip, recognized by many sporting authorities as the middleweight champion, and Leo Houck, of Philadelphia. Houck has wanted a try at Chip ever since the latter boxed his way to the late Stanley Ketchel's throne. Chip was favored in today's betting. The fight is scheduled to go ten rounds.

The other important local bout tonight will be between Jack Britton and Kid Kansas, of Buffalo. The "Sunflower Kid" has been going at a great pace for six months and a rattling fight is looked for. The bout is set for ten rounds.

Troy, N. Y., Feb. 2.—Battling Levinsky, "the busiest fighter in the world," today was thought to have a good chance to take the measure of Pueblo Jim Flynn, in the scheduled ten-round bout at the Collar City A. C., of Troy. Tonight's fight will be Levinsky's fourth in a month.

CARDS WIN LISTLESS GAME WITH MADISON

Madison Reserves With Crippled Team Easy Victims for Cardinals in Saturday Night's Contest.

Due to the fact that four of the players of the Madison Reserves missed the train and only one of the regulars and two of the subs, played at the Cardinal contest at the rink, Saturday night, the game gave little satisfaction. The Cards had an easy time trimming their crippled opponents, winning by a 29 to 11 score.

The four Madison players who failed to make an appearance were delayed with examinations and their places were filled with Berger and Tom Garrity of Beloit, who were summoned by telephone. In the first half Madison was powerless before the Cardinal attack and ragged guarding allowed the Janesville team to run up a hopeless lead of 22 points, while the losers were only able to mark one foul. Both the Madison guards made a fatal mistake of coming down the line, the advance of the ball, leaving the Janesville forwards uncovered for easy shots at the goal. The team work and passing of both teams was fast and sure in the first half, but the big floor space made it uninteresting to the crowd. Cunningham, forward for the Cards, played in the steller role for his team mates, making eight baskets and holding his opponent to zero. The weakened offense of the visitors proved easy for Eddie Garrity and Falter, whose floor work was one of the few features of the game, and they had very few open shots at the cage.

In the second half Madison shifted her line-up with better success as they scored ten points to the Cardinals seven.

Summary. Janesville: Falter, c; Cunningham and Wilson, f; E. Garrity, Blunk and French, g.

Madison: Whitmore, c; Sweet, Berger and Pollock, g; T. Garrity, Berger and Pollock, f. Baskets: Cunningham, 8; Wilson, 2; Falter, 3; Blunk, 1; Pollock, 2; Whitmore, 2. Referee—Cook. Timekeeper—Gronin.

Amusements WELSH SINGERS MOST NOVEL ORGANIZATION

Chorus Conductor Tells of His Interesting Association of Singers From Wales.

"Gwent" said George F. Davies, "is the Welsh spelling of the name of our County of Monmouthshire, famed as the center of the musical spirit of our island nation." Mr. Davies is the famous conductor of the Gwent Welsh Male Singers, who will come to Janesville under the auspices of the Apollo Club Monday, Feb. 9th, and as part of their second tour of America under a concert at the Myers Theatre.

Mr. Davies is an interesting personality—he has led his organization to many victories in the Welsh "Bistedd-fods," or singing matches between clubs famous locally. He is really one of the foremost leaders of the country, and has this year assembled a chorus of sixteen men that would be hard to duplicate. He is capable of rendering not only the characteristic Welsh music with their thrilling airs such as "The March of the Men of Harlech," but the most difficult of the choruses, including the famous "Soldiers Chords" from "Faust," de Rille's "Martyrs of the Arena," and an ensemble version of Strauss' "Blue Danube."

Davies is an interesting talker and his conversation with the interviewer could be recorded, would certainly be of interest to music lovers.

It seems that in Wales all the miners are natural born singers and that local fame is based on a man's voice rather than any other characteristic. The "Boys," as Mr. Davies lovingly calls the members of his organization, neither drink nor smoke, and now that their individual fame has led them to join the best known of their native choirs and tour, they devote all their energy to the study of new songs.

It seems that these particular "boys" whom Mr. Davies brought over with him this time are the choicest of the country. Each one of them has won his spurs in the shape of a medal or two—none of them has won less than three, and the tenor of the party has no less than six of the grand prizes that were obtained at the best competitions in the old country.

A great success was scored by the Welshmen both last season and this in their appearance at Carnegie Hall and Aeolian Hall in New York City.

The critics were universal in their praise, and said that the voices of the Welsh miners compared most favorably with those heard in grand opera at the Metropolitan.

The great disaster that thrilled all America such a short time ago—where over 400 men were killed by an explosion in a gallery in South Wales—happened not ten miles from the town of Newport, where the majority of the boys live. All of them work in mines similar to that in which the accident occurred—the Seughenydd—where is 3,000 feet deep. The average depth of the mines is 1,500 feet. There is a strange superstition among the miners that they have better voices on account of their underground occupation; they are continually singing while at work—in fact, they would have little other time for practice, working as they do, at nine hour shifts—and as often was the case with Rissa Williams, one of the soloists of the organization, giving up eighteen hours out of the twenty-four to their trade.

ARIZONA AT APOLLO. Arizona, one of the greatest plays in American history, has been adapted for motion pictures, by its author, Augustus Thomas, in six big reels and two hundred and ten superb scenes. This play, beginning Tuesday afternoon, will be shown at the Apollo Theatre. The cast is entirely made up of all stars and it will prove one of the largest drawing cards ever shown in this theatre.

The scenes are laid at a western military post and a thrilling love story is interwoven in among the wonderful scenes of that part of the country. Troops of cavalry are used and the action throughout is exciting and perfect.

This play will be shown for two days only. Tonight a new bill is announced at the Apollo, including some high class acts. For the last of the week a Caribet Musical Comedy is promised with seven people.

Fred Snodgrass.

Fred Snodgrass, famous New York Giant outfielder, is booked for the Federal League. At least so says Bill Phillips, Indianapolis Fed league club manager, who is on Snodgrass' trail. Phillips wants one cracking good man to line up with Potts and Al Kaiser in the outer garden, and thinks Snodgrass would just fill the bill.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Rain or snow flurries may be expected tonight and Tuesday. It will be colder.

TOP-KNOT COME DOWN.

"Once upon a time there was a well-meaning pastor who felt it his duty to rebuke the excessive size of head-dresses worn by the women of his congregation. The text for his sermon was 'Top-knot Come Down.' The context in the bible, which he did not quote, is 'Let them that are on the house top not come down.' A weekly religious publication, and an exceedingly foolish minister in Detroit, have been reading to The Wall Street Journal lessons in a similar fragmentary theology.

"It was said in these columns that the Ford wages plan, involving a distribution not based upon created value length of service, or merit, was applying a biblical principle into a field where it did not belong. No paper has done more than this to incultate the permanent place of religion and ethics in business. But the distribution to laborers in the vineyard of the same wage for one hour's work or twelve, indicated a spiritual reward, which no money can measure. The Divine Author of the parable would have been the first to say that such a distribution as an earthly recompense would be vicious. 'The laborer is worthy of his hire.'

"It looks to Henry Ford, and the Reverend W. A. Moore of Detroit, as if the automobile manufacturer had established a minimum wage, putting his employees beyond all further fear of want. As a matter of fact, and as Mr. Ford will find in practice, he has established a maximum wage, which sooner or later will do an injustice to his best workmen. A wage of $15 a week looks large to Mr. Ford's office boy, who is not worth $5, and cannot receive the greater sum unless it is taken out of the pocket of a more deserving person. But because of the very magnitude of the sum, that employee will still be receiving $15 a week, when a smaller wage would have spurred him to qualify himself for more.

"Mr. Ford's $30 clerk, discharging $15 duties, will never be anything more. The manufacturer is turning out the worst product of a system absolutely unsound in ethics and religion, the finished loafer. In his well meant effort to mend one rent in the social fabric, Mr. Ford has made a dozen new ones."

This criticism of Henry Ford's misdirected philanthropy, from the Wall Street Journal, expresses popular sentiment in the minds of all sober-thinking people. Paying a man twice what he earns is always demoralizing to the man, and encourages inefficiency. Mr. Ford could just as well have disposed of his ten million dollars on a legitimate profit-sharing basis, by giving his men a bank account at the end of the year. This would have ended the habits of thrift and economy rather than habits of extravagance, and also have prevented the spirit of unrest in the industrial world, caused by his unwise policy.

If he really desires to serve the public he might reduce the price of his cars and thus prevent his surplus from becoming top-heavy. There are several kinds of philanthropy, but the best service contemplates the greatest goods to the greatest number. Mr. Ford has elevated his victims to a pinnacle from which many of them will finally drop with a "dull and sickening thud."

LATEST NEWSPAPER CENSUS.

The forty-sixth annual census of the publications of the United States and Canada, published in the American Newspaper Annual and Directory, shows that an average of five new publications were started every working day during 1913. The suspensions and consolidations make the net gain only three a week.

The total number of publications is 24,527. There are 2640 dailies—the evening editions outnumbering the morning by about three to one. There are 572 Sunday papers. It requires forty different languages to carry the news to the people of this country. Large lists are devoted to the special publications, agricultural, religious, etc., but every class, every cult, every trade, every profession, every fad, every "ism," has its printed spokesman in the 24,527 different lists into which they are subdivided.

Only four industries now exceed in capital invested and value of products the business of publishing and printing. In ten years the output increased $6 per cent, and it is estimated that at present the earnings of newspapers and periodicals average nearly a million and a half dollars per calendar day. Two-thirds of this amount perhaps represents the income from advertising. In the nature of the case no one individual can be familiar with a large part of the publishing industry, which is carried on in more than 11,000 different towns; each of these is located and described, together with all of the publications, in the big book which presents the latest report of our publishing world.

These statistics show something of the magnitude of the newspaper business. It is estimated that two thousand acres of timber are cut every day for wood pulp used in the business.

IS THE HAUL WORTH THE HIRE?

Freight rates to most people are a mystery. Very few of us can tell the net cost of a freight bill. Somewhere in the vast investment and cost of maintenance of railroad equipment the net cost of a freight bill is set. All we know about it is that legislation sets the retail price of freight, while the railroad is expected to meet the cost whatever it happens to be, and do it without lowering the efficiency of the service, if any way.

For many years, the railroads have given us their service without asking for more than the opportunity to serve for the compensation that we ourselves have scheduled for them. Now they ask for an advance of five per cent. Are they entitled to it? The railroads give us their reason for the request, the fact that they are paying more for operating essentials. The increase is not for their own pocket—it's simply to meet the extra cost of giving us their service. Let us see what they give us. They now carry a $4 pair of shoes over a thousand miles for two and two-fifths cents. A pound of ham retailing for 18 cents is hauled the same distance for one-third of a cent, and a cigar for one forty-second of a cent.

In the above we see how little the freight rate has to do with setting the retail price. A five per cent advance in the freight on shoes would still leave the freight less than three cents; on ham and cigars, the increase would not be enough to notice. Of the tens of thousands of products now carried by freight, the rate is about the same ratio all the way down the line.

It is only natural that a request for increased compensation should come from the railroads at this time. They are paying more for labor, steel, coal and the countless essentials to railroad equipment. It is a just request, and as such it should be considered and granted.

This plea for the railroads is being sent out to the press of the country, and it should be given wide publicity in the interests of justice. The country can ill-afford to cripple one of its most important industries.

SCATTERS HAY OVER LOFT

As It Falls From Forks, the Fodder Is Placed Just Where Wanted.

An invention which will interest the farmer is shown herewith, the subject of a recent patent granted by the United States Patent Office. It is the general custom to fill the barn by means of forks traveling overhead the length of the structure, but when the load is discharged the efforts of several men are required to scatter the hay to the sides and away from the center in order that the barn may be filled.

The principal feature of the device consists of a tilting platform which is secured to the timbers entering into the construction of the barn so that it may be moved along to any desired point under the traveling fork. When the load is dropped from the latter the angle of the platform is changed to one which will direct the hay to any point where the level may be lower than that of the surroundings. An arrangement of this character enables one man to accomplish the same amount of work usually done by several.

CHURCH OF CHRIST BUYS BUILDING LOT

Rev. Van Voorhis To Attend Convention at St. Louis at Annual Meeting of Secretaries.

Through the efforts of the Christian church members in Janesville, transactions have been closed whereby the building site on West Milwaukee street and South Academy street has been purchased and the church will erect a tabernacle in the near future. It is the plans of the congregation for the erection of a permanent edifice on the purchased site.

The Christian church in Janesville is the growth of a bible school that was started in this city three years ago and at the present day the school in all departments number almost a hundred pupils. Two years ago the church was affected by a severe fire, meetings being held in the old municipal court rooms, in the Carpenter block which was destroyed in the Milwaukee street bridge fire. Since that time meetings have been held in the Caledonian rooms in the Clark block. Because of the prosperous growth larger quarters were necessary and so steps were taken for a permanent church, which led to the purchasing of the site. As soon as possible, with the idea of not burdening the organization, a substantial church is planned.

Van Voorhis, state superintendent of missions of the Church of Christ in Wisconsin and minister for this church in Janesville, will leave tomorrow for St. Louis to attend the annual meeting of the National and State secretaries of that organization. He will deliver an address before the body on "Co-operation in New Fields With Other Religious Bodies." At the convention the delegates will meet with the committee of One Hundred which has been appointed to promote the Men and Millions movement, a campaign started by the Church of Christ to enlist one thousand new workers for mission fields and to secure six thousand dollars for missionary and educational purposes. After these meetings Rev. Van Voorhis will make a trip in the south, visiting his parents in Oklahoma City. He will be absent from Janesville for a period of two weeks, during which time there will be services held at the Caledonian rooms every Lord's Day morning.

LIVELY RUNAWAY ON SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Horse Tries to Pay Informal Visit to the Lyric Theatre After Break- ing Away From Driver.

There was a lively scramble in front of the Lyric Theatre Sunday afternoon when a horse belonging to F. Bieman, who resides in the east, broke away from Mrs. Bieman, who was driving it, at the corner of Western avenue and West Milwaukee street and made a dash down Milwaukee street, ending his afternoon frolic by seeking to gain entrance to the theatre to enjoy a moving picture show as a climax to his activities. Prompt work by several men standing in front of the theatre prevented any injury and the animal was quieted. It appears that Mrs. Bieman and two children, Charles and Elizabeth, were about to start for home after a Sunday afternoon call with friends on Western avenue. The animal was quieted and Mrs. Bieman about to get in when the horse became frightened and broke away, throwing Mrs. Bieman to the street but not seriously injuring her. The animal jumped from the buggy and escaped unhurt and the only damage done was a broken wheel.

NEW EXPRESS RATES BECOME EFFECTIVE

Radical Reduction in Rates Effective Today Following Re-organization of System.

Janesville shippers will undoubtedly be interested in the new express rates that have just come into effect today, all greatly reduced. The Interstate commerce commission has divided the entire country into uniform blocks and the rates between any two of the equidistant blocks is practically the same. This will eliminate a great deal of the complexity in working out the rates. These new rates, coupled with the other advantages of the express services, will be welcomed by those who are obliged to make many shipments. There will be an economy of charges over numerous roads and the shipper need only figure as though he were shipping over a single road.

A comparison of some of the old rates with the new rates as applying to Janesville shippers will give a clearer idea of what material reductions have been made. For instance, a package from Janesville to Milwaukee on a five foot box car, under the old system, was $3.50, while under the new method of rating it is only $2.25. Other reductions are made in the same manner.

The first class rate on a five foot package from this city to Green Bay was $4.00 and now it is $2.25, a reduction of 43.75 per cent. These reductions have been made all over the country and the reductions have been just as great. A five foot package from this city to Chicago, for instance, was $4.00 and now it is $2.25, a reduction of 43.75 per cent. A package from this city to Buffalo, New York, can be shipped for $3.50, whereas it cost $6.00 under the old rates.

Coupled with insurance on all packages up to the value of $50, collection and delivery of all packages, quick and safe transportation, and the privilege of shipping all necessary consignments before acceptance, these low rates should tend to increase shipment throughout the country, as the cheap movement of goods to and from different parts of the country is one of the essential elements of successful business.

All of the rates in spite of their great reduction will be charged the same for express and parcel post, and packages alike. A long list of changes in the rates might here be tabulated, but would be too inadequate to do justice to the many more than examples of the reduction.

Examples of the rates to the main points will serve the same purpose as well as a great many. A hundred pounds of goods from this city to Chicago cost $3.25 and has been reduced to $2.75. A three pound package to Minneapolis under the old rate would cost $1.00, while under the new rates it could be shipped for 75 cents.

The local agents are spending all of their spare moments getting the new rates and schedules straightened out in their minds, and will be able to give shippers all necessary information in regard to rates on all sizes and classes of products. The agents stated that although these changes were entirely different from the old ones, they were so radical that they are comparatively simple.

POLICE BROKE UP AN ARGENTINA TEA

Called By Neighbors to Stop Hilarity At One O'clock Sunday Morning.

On receiving the complaints of citizens residing on Fifth avenue Police Sergeant Brown, Patrolman Sam Brown and Patrolman Fred Albright broke up a party at the residence of W. J. Lawrence, 481 Fifth avenue, early Sunday morning. At one o'clock Sunday morning the officers went to the home and found a party in progress. The party consisted of a number of young men, several of whom were paroled only a few weeks ago by Judge Maxfield on their promise to work and behave themselves, and several dancing to the music of a mouthorgan. According to the policemen the dancing was a model of the original Argentina tango and the revelers frequently paraded in the street, and the police were called to the door to stop them from doing so.

When the policemen rapped at the door there was a general cry of "duck" and the party fled to the rear of the building. The police were crowded for a short space of time with the guests' efforts to gain safety in flight. Those that stood by the door were told that if such revels were repeated in the future they would be arrested and the authorities received profuse promises that there would be no more "tango teas."

HALL AND SAYLES MOVE TO MAIN STREET

Are to Occupy the South Half of the Bostwick Building March 1st.

On March first the firm of Hall and Sayles, the oldest jewelry firm in the state, will remove from their present location at the corner of West Milwaukee street to the south half of the Bostwick building now occupied by the Reiberg company on South Main street. It is like coming back home to this firm as they were one of the prominent business firms on the east side of the river for over thirty years, until they moved to their present location seventeen years ago. In their new location they will have an entirely remodeled building.

A quick nation will be reached from the street entrance to the rear of the building, new steel fronts with separate entrances for the Hall and Sayles and the Putnam companies will be installed and the interior will be completely redecorated. The firm will occupy the first floor and basement. This firm was first organized as Webb & Lee in 1856. In 1860 it was changed to Hall & Sayles & Co. and in 1869 it became Webb & Hall. In 1885 it was Hall & Farnsworth for two years and then the A. F. Hall Company, later Hall, Sayles & Co. In 1904 it was changed to Hall & Sayles. For many years it occupied the present location on the Bower City Block.

SEEKS TO BOLSTER UP THE TAX LEVY

Prof. Adams Issues Long Statement Relative to Cost of Government in Past Ten Years.

In an attempt to bolster up the position of the state government as regards the present tax levy, Professor Adams of the state commission gives out a list of figures which he claims are based upon the actual expenditures. He does not, however, make any reference to the $128,000 which Rock county did not receive back in 1913. The following is a summary of the Adams statement.

The net cost of ten years of this "progressive government" to the entire body of ordinary taxpayers has been just $267,510. Of every $1,000 contributed by the taxpayer to the state during the period 1903-12, $98.40 was returned to the localities and only $1.60 was retained for state purposes and state purposes include the state university, normal schools, etc.

These statements are conclusions deduced from a long statement analyzing the Wisconsin tax situation, as announced by Prof. T. S. Adams of the University of Wisconsin today. Adams analyzes the tax situation in twenty states in comparison with the levy in Wisconsin.

On the basis of improvements and disbursements, expenses in Wisconsin have risen somewhat more rapidly than those of the twenty states tabulated," comments Prof. Adams. "On the basis of current expenses the growth in Wisconsin has been less than that shown by the group of states with which comparison is made."

The decline in the purchasing power of the dollar in ten years is discussed. It says that the cost of a year's food supply that stood at $301 in 1900 rose steadily until August, 1913 it had reached $501. He shows that this has had a material effect in the increase of state expenses.

"The one fact that stands out in dispute is that the state boards and commissions can have, by reason of their comparative unimportance in the budget, little part in the bringing about of the increase," says Mr. Adams. "In the budget for 1913-14, for instance, only 9.31 per cent of the entire appropriations are to boards and commissions."

Education receives 49 per cent, highways and corrections 16.4 per cent, state highways 9 per cent and the new capital 6 per cent. The tax and railroad commission each absorb one per cent. The largest item under boards and commissions, the state board of agriculture and commission, represents only 1.9 per cent of the total. All these boards together, as stated above, represent only 9.31 per cent of the aggregate.

Changes in a fractional part so small as 9 per cent count for very little in the increase of state taxes.

All those holding invitations for the Military Ball are reminded that the date is Tuesday night, Feb. 3, at the Military Ball at the Lyric Theatre.

FIND POLICE DOGS AFTER LONG SEARCH

Local Patrolmen Trail Bloodhound Pups Mysteriously Missing Since Midnight Sunday.

After searching the city for twelve hours local patrolmen finally located the missing bloodhound pups of the police department near the center of the city before noon today, after they had been mysteriously missing since midnight Sunday.

Patrolman Sam Brown, Harry Smith, Fred Albright and Philo Kemp engaged in the scouting expedition after the valuable dogs this morning.

It appears that Patrolman Sam Brown, who was off duty Sunday night, had been charged toward the midnight hour for the purpose of a training trip. He took them down Franklin street and was engaged in teaching them to climb the postoffice steps when suddenly their attention was strangely and irresistibly attracted to a stranger who was walking rapidly south on Franklin street opposite the postoffice.

Not even stopping to give the air a preliminary whiff the dogs dashed across the street and were at the stranger's heels. At once the man started on a run and was well toward the corner of Dodge and Franklin streets when Patrolman Brown came aware of the situation and loudly demanded the fugitive to stop. But the more Brown shouted, the faster the stranger ran. He was evidently determined to reach the postoffice steps or was the victim of a guilty conscience.

He turned up Dodge street and continued his flight, faster and faster, closely followed by the police dogs. Patrolman Brown at last was in the race. He turned down South High street and here Brown was outdistanced and forced to give up pursuit. He spent most of the remainder of the night searching for the dogs and with the aid of the other policemen continued the search this morning.

Numerous inquiries were made in all parts of the southwestern part of the city, but without result. It seems that the dogs were gone, missing as surely as if the ground had opened and swallowed them.

HEAVY COLLECTIONS IN TAXES SATURDAY

City Treasurer Receives $36,332 in Last Day's Rush Before Two Per Cent Is Added.

Saturday was the banner tax collecting day of the season at the city hall where $36,332.89 were received by anxious taxpayers who sought to get under the line at the last minute and avoid paying the two per cent delinquent fee. This brings the total collections to date to over $215,000 which leaves less than $20,000 to be collected during the present month.

There was quite a large number of persons who called at the city treasurer's office this morning to make their tax settlements in spite of the fact that this was the first day of the two per cent penalty period. Mr. Muenchow is confident that this year will establish a record for prompt settlement and that a very small amount of the city's levy will be returned to the county for collection.

PEANUT PILFERING IS PREVENTED

Depredations of Policemen at the Corner Fruit Stands Headed Off.

The tribute which the fruit-stand man pays to the policeman on the beat is the shape of a peanut. Various matters to Diego and the pilfering visits of the bluecoat have been successfully circumvented by the new invention of a policeman-proof peanut stand, which is being made use of by the fruit-stand keepers generally, they being very quick to recognize the economy of a device which prevents the pilferings of the policeman and the messenger boy.

The stand is made of a glass case of cylindrical shape, in which they may be seen, but not appropriated unless the thief contemplates buying the whole lot. When a purchaser desires peanuts the proprietor of the fruit stand presses a lever and a predetermined quantity of peanuts is delivered through an opening in the bottom of the device. Another advantage of this invention is that the peanuts are kept hot with very little expenditure of fuel.

WETS OPEN FIGHT TO MAKE ROCKFORD WET

Hope to Wrest City from Drys Particularly Because Mayor Will Stump State.

Rockford, second largest "dry" city in the country, will be the main battle ground in the next Illinois local option fight. The wets are circulating a petition asking the petition asking that the saloon question be placed on the ballot next spring, after the city has been "dry" two years.

Mayor W. W. Bennett has speaking dates throughout the state until election time to tell the advantages of a "dry" regime. The fact that the many are believed to be a candidate for the Anti-Saloon League for governor of Illinois has led the liquor forces to decide on extra efforts to swing the city into the wet column.

The wets claim to have 7,000 names on their petition. This is denied by those in favor of the continued absence of the saloons. They assert there are not that many voters in the city who favor the return of saloons. No attempt was made to get signatures of women, but the wets declare the women will be organized before the next election.

The drys assert there is no chance of the wets winning if the suffrage law is held constitutional and women are permitted to vote.

SECURE REV. KIDDER AS INTERIM PASTOR

Congregationalists Accept Madison Minister to Fill Pulpit for the Present.

Rev. T. S. Kidder, D. D. of Madison, has been secured to take charge of the Congregational pulpit as stated by the church and interim pastor for the time being, the recommendation of the church on a new pastor having been accepted. Dr. Kidder has been for some time acceptably serving the church without a pastor in this capacity and his work has been eminently satisfactory. Members of the local congregation are gratified to secure such able leadership during the time occupied by the committee in securing permanent pastor. Dr. Kidder will come to this city to reside within a short time.

Prof. J. C. Crawford of Beloit college, who has been occupying the pulpit for several Sundays, has proved himself an able speaker and has brought much help and inspiration in his messages. He will speak next Sunday morning and the Rev. C. Denison, a former pastor, will be here to preach both morning and evening of Feb. 15.

Postoffice Buildings.

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Slivash."

One of the favorite diversions of this government is to erect postoffice buildings. Many hundreds of the edifices have been begun in the last half century and almost all of them are not complete. Postoffice buildings are almost always built by the government, and it is usually neat, uncommotional and designed in a way to give an architect queer and almost unbearable pains. One hundred thousand dollars will build a ten-story skyscraper for private citizen. But when spent for postoffice building it will only build a modest coop, for which $75,000 more must be appropriated in order to add front steps and a door knob. The reader must not infer from these remarks that the government is swindled by dishonest contractors. It is a fact from being the case. The government is merely particular. It loves to build massive granite pillars and cut stone stairs and it is never happy except when paying the highest possible price. If the government were to build a dog house for the postmaster general, it would first select a site as far as possible from the dog's haunts and would then erect a magnificent gothic structure ten feet square at a cost of $200,000, postponing the building of the roof until another appropriation could be maintained. The government's greatest feat in postoffice building so far was the Chicago postoffice. This splendid structure begun twenty years ago, was finished just before the appropriation for a new and adequate building was obtained. It is the handsomest postoffice in the world and is admirably suited for storing pigeons. Postoffice buildings are of various quaint designs, but can always be told by one peculiarity. If the stranger in a city discovers a rare and costly building placed well outside of the business district, where only two pedestrians and a sleeping cat horse are visible, he need have no hesitation about going in. The great front doors and hunting for a place to buy a stamp. He is in a postoffice.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

PHOTOGRAPHS AND SELFISHNESS.

ONE of my neighbors lost her husband just before Christmas. A few of us who had known her very well, and who realized how great her bereavement was, decided that Christmas would be very gloomy for her this year and promised ourselves we would break away from our own family circle long enough during the day to visit her. He and his few relatives are widely scattered.

I found her almost happy. "What do you think?" she said, her pleasure flushing her face. "I learned just yesterday that just before he died John had had his pictures taken, to surprise me on Christmas. You know how averse he has always been to going to a photographer. He hadn't had a picture taken for years before."

"I used to try to coax him to go, but he never would. After he died I felt so badly about it. Of course, I could never forget him, or how he looked, but a picture would have been so tangible. And yesterday the proofs came. They are splendid. It seems almost like a Christmas present from him." And she showed me the proofs.

I know there are many homes where one member of the family—mother, father or son, refuses steadily to have a picture taken. "I do not take a good picture," or "I would rather go to the dentist than have my pictures taken," is the excuse—phrases so familiar that they have taken place with those ready-to-use bits of conversation aptly termed bromides.

It may be that you feel this way, too. If so, you are guilty of a very common form of selfishness, although it is not always recognized as such. You may feel that you do not take a good picture and that you feel rather have your dear ones remember you as you are or that you feel and feelings in this, not theirs?

Do you know of any home that has lost one of its members that does not treasure a picture of the departed one? Have you not lost someone many times its weight in gold? Then why deny others this same pleasure? A picture of ourselves is not taken for ourselves but for others. And if they want a picture of us enough to importune us for it, why not consider them, rather than our own prejudices?

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Never set a freshly baked cake in an open window to cool. The steam will condense and make it heavy. When the knob comes off tea kettle or tin covers, use a screw and a small, long cork. Much nicer than original knob, as it never gets hot. Stair carpets should be heavily padded if one desires them to wear well.

Add a teaspoonful of baking powder to old potatoes when mashing them and beat briskly. This will make them light and creamy.

THE TABLE.

Boiled Black Bass With Cream Gravy—Put in a pot enough slightly salted water to cover the fish, add a bit of vinegar, an onion, eight whole peppers and a blade of mace. Sew up the fish in a piece of thin cheesecloth fitted snugly to it. Lay in the water; bring very slowly to the simmering point and boil steadily, allowing twelve minutes to each pound of fish. When done remove the cloth, lay the fish on a platter, garnished with sliced lemon, and serve with cream gravy.

Cream Gravy—Cook together a tablespoonful each of butter and flour, and when blended pour slowly upon them a cupful of the water in which the bass was boiled, and stir until smooth and thick. Season to taste with celery salt and white pepper and stir in a gill of cream to which a pinch of baking soda has been added. Do not boil.

Celery Toast—Stew inch-lengths of celery until soft; run through a vegetable press; mix with a thin white sauce, seasoning with paprika; salt and a dash of onion juice; boil once and put into a pudding dish. Alternate layers of lightly roasted celery which have been dipped into the salted water, poured off from the boiled celery, cover and set in the oven for ten minutes; then serve in the bake dish.

Tomato Jelly Salad—To one can of stewed and strained tomatoes add one teaspoonful each of salt, powdered sugar, and two-thirds box of gelatin which has soaked fifteen minutes in one-half cup of cold water. Pour into small cups and chill. Run a knife around inside of the moulds so that when taken out the shapes may have a rough surface, suggesting a fresh tomato. Place on lettuce leaves and garnish top of each with Mayonnaise dressing.

Shredded Ham With Currant Jelly Sauce—One-half tablespoonful of butter, one-third cup of currant jelly, a few grains of cayenne, one-quarter cup of sherry wine, one cup of cold cooked ham cut in small strips. Put the butter and currant jelly into the chafing dish. As soon as melted add the cayenne wine and ham; simmer five minutes.

Maple Sugar Frosting—One pound of soft maple sugar, one-half cup of boiling water, whites of two eggs. Break the sugar in small pieces, put in a sauce pan with boiling water and stir occasionally until the sugar is dissolved. Boil without stirring until the syrup will thread when dropped from tip to spoon. Pour the syrup gradually on the beaten whites, beating the mixture constantly, and continue beating until of right consistency to spread.

Cottage Pudding—One-quarter cup of butter, two-thirds cup of sugar, one egg, one cup of milk, two and one-half cups of flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt. Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually and egg well beaten; mix and sift the baking powder and salt; add alternately with the milk to the first mixture, turn into buttered cake pan; bake thirty-five minutes. Serve with vanilla or hard sauce.

Tooth Talks

The why and wherefore of dental disorders are less understood in this enlightened age than any other subject of like magnitude.

A farmer about to buy a horse examines its mouth quite carefully. He knows that a horse with poor teeth and a bad looking mouth is to be avoided. It is astonishing to know how many farmers and city folks, too, remain entirely ignorant of the mouths of children. The first fruits of this ignorance are neglect, which is the main cause of our dental troubles.

We pride ourselves on having a general knowledge at least on many subjects. Most any one will tell you that living out of doors is very beneficial for people inclined to be tubercular. So we might name a number of subjects and that answers could be quickly given us. Now how much can the average person tell you about the value of mouth hygiene? They might tell you that keeping the mouth clean was supposed to prevent decay of the teeth but ask them some of the details, just how to keep them clean, and what contagious diseases might be prevented, etc. This is not as it should be. Everyone ought to know a great deal about it, as it is of particular value to all. Clean mouths and clean teeth are the great preventatives of dental troubles. How quickly one wakes up to the fact that they have neglected to use the preventative when he breaks through into a nerve while eating supper. Nature's alarm clock has called your attention to it good and strong and you cannot always stop the vibrator as quickly as you would like. Take time by the forelock and keep your mouth as clean as possible. Cut down your dental bills for the family by doing a little work in prevention at home. This will not only be a money saver but a pain saver also, to say nothing of the other advantages.

Children are taught to wash their hands and face, take their bath, clean their finger nails, sometimes, comb their hair, etc. Why should they not learn to clean their own teeth? It is of a great deal more value as far as health is concerned than any of the above useful good habits.

An unclear mouth is not the best kind of a mouth to chew our clean, well prepared food in. If every one would take an ordinary hand mirror and take a peep into his or her mouth just before eating every meal, there surely would be a general clean and pretty well around the world in a very short time.

Suppose all children were taught in the schools the value in keeping the mouth clean and the importance of the mouth to the general health. Do you think that the generation that is now growing up would use the mouth to keep tobacco in, to pour alcohol into, and to use it for a general storehouse for a variety of things? The mouth was never intended for any such uses as that it is now put to, but it gets it just the same, just because its purpose and value is and to do it is not impressed upon our minds. Let us not be in such a hurry to eat our peck of dirt and then we might live longer and happier.

GOOD THINGS NEW AND OLD.

In making sponge cake, the eggs should be beaten very light and care should be taken not to lose that lightness when stirring in the sugar and flour. Here is one which is called

Never Fail Sponge Cake.—Beat together three eggs and a cup and a half of sugar until creamy, then add a half cup of cold water and two cupfuls of flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Bake in two layers, and use any kind of filling desired.

Popovers.—Put a cup of flour, a cup of milk, two eggs and a fourth of a teaspoonful of salt into a bowl and beat five minutes. Have the muffin or gem pans smoking hot and well greased, with a red hot oven waiting, and you will have popovers which will pop over right into your mouth.

Two-Egg Sponge Cake.—Separate the yolks from the whites of two fresh eggs; beat the whites until stiff, and add half a cup of sugar. Beat the yolks five minutes without stopping, and add to them another half cup of sugar with two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. Beat the two egg mixtures together and cut and fold in with the lightest hand a cup of flour sifted with a teaspoonful of baking powder and a pinch of salt, then add a half cup of hot water. Sprinkle sugar on top and bake 30 minutes. Invert the pan until cool.

For the Chafing Dish.—Beat four eggs together in the upper pan, season with salt and paprika, add four tablespoonfuls of chutney sauce. Mash with this two dozen sardines which have been skinned; mix with cracker crumbs until it can be molded into small patties, and fry a golden brown in butter.

With eggs the price they are the through a press beating until it is entirely free from lumps. Season with cake is almost a genuine first aid to the woman who plans on staying in side her husband's income and saving a little each payday. One might ask if the finished product is a cakeless cake, but one trial will convince you that it is a recipe that is worth keeping and using.

The cake: One cup dark brown sugar, one cup cold water, one and one-half cups seeded raisins, one-third cup of lard, one teaspoon ground cinnamon, one-third teaspoon ground cloves, one-quarter nutmeg and salt. Boil the ingredients together three minutes then cool. When cold stir in one teaspoon soda dissolved in a little warm water. Add two cups of flour sifted with one teaspoon of baking powder. Bake in a loaf. But are a pleasing addition to this recipe.

The following recipe for creamy baked potatoes is in answer to a reader's request for the same, and are, as she asked, for "the kind served in hotels." Use potatoes of uniform size. Wash well and cut off the tops; place on end in a baking pan with the cut side up. When tender they are easily pierced with a fork; remove the inside with a spoon being careful not to break the skins. Press the pulp through a press beating until it is entirely free from lumps. Season with butter, a little milk, salt and pepper; then return to the oven until they are light brown on top.

Women Worth While

Mrs. Joseph E. Ransdell.

(By Selene Armstrong Harmon.) LIKE President Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. Joseph E. Ransdell of Louisiana has tried out the number thirteen and found it lucky.

"To show you I always knew what a good number it is," says the wife of Senator Ransdell, "I will tell you that I came into the world as the thirteenth child of my parents. In that day and time it was held as a lucky number of children for parents to have. So, at any rate, I had the advantage of not regarding it with superstitious awe in my childhood."

Mrs. Ransdell is the recently elected treasurer general of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She spends two mornings each week in her offices at Continental Memorial hall in Washington. Here the Tennessee, Maryland and California rooms are given over for the transaction of the large amount of business that passes through her hands and she has a staff of nine efficient clerks. Every penny of the thousands of dollars disbursed annually by the great patriotic society is handled by Mrs. Ransdell and the office is one that calls for masculine business and executive ability.

Mrs. Ransdell has served as vice president at large of the Women's National Rivers and Harbors congress and is deeply interested in the subject of the development of American waterways.

"If there is any one good cause dearer to me than another, however," she says, "it is the cause of international peace. I am a member of the committee on international peace of the Daughters of the American Revolution and no phase of the patriotic work of this body interests me more deeply than does that."

Another present-day movement of which I am a whole-hearted advocate is continued, "is that of equal suffrage."

During the fourteen years in which her husband has served in congress Mrs. Ransdell has been less than half the time in Washington. Back of her prolonged absence from the capital is a story of years of devotion to and self-sacrifice for her aged invalid mother, at whose bedside she practically spent years.

Senator Ransdell, Mrs. Ransdell are devoted to young people. They have a most interesting home in northern Louisiana, which when occupied by them is always filled with their young friends. Near the house they have erected a dancing pavilion and every summer they engage the services of a local negro band for the entire season in order that the young people of their community may have the constant use of the pavilion. The gardens of Mrs. Ransdell are among the show places of her native state. In them bloom all the sweetest flowers of the Southland, as well as trees of magnolia and crepe myrtle. She and Senator Ransdell have given years to the cultivation and beautifying of these grounds.

HUNDREDS OF WOMEN

nowadays are entering the professions or business world and go to work day after day in bad health, afflicted with some female ailment, dragging one foot wearily after the other, working with an eye on the clock and wishing for closing time to come.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson, I am going to love, but self love. If possible, let with a fellow for four years and this young man see that he has made love him very dearly. But some a girl and she did slip against you, and unless he can not have any trust you and believe in you, you home, and as would be wise to give him up. A was a very cold suspicious husband who listens to night I took her anybody who will talk against his home with me. wife is the worst kind of husband to Now she is tell- ing my friend some very harsh lies, which he believes, and it is making my life very miserable. Do you advise me to do, as it is driving me frantic? I know he loves me dearly, but is afraid you will have to order one for yourself at the same time, even if you do not eat the oysters, you cannot make him feel uncomfortable, you know. But if it is ever one for himself, I see no harm, why you should order what you do not want.

Dear Mrs. Thompson, I belong to a club of fifteen girls. We are to have a sleigh ride party soon and each girl is to invite a boy. Expenses are paid by the girls before we go. We will have an oyster supper. I do not like oysters and cannot eat them any way. We pay by the plate for our supper. Shall I have to order mine and not eat it, or what shall I do? "MANY THANKS."

If you are supposed to "treat" some boy friend to the supper I'm afraid you will have to order one for yourself at the same time, even if you do not eat the oysters, you cannot make him feel uncomfortable, you know. But if it is ever one for himself, I see no harm, why you should order what you do not want.

When a person loves truly he will not listen to stories about his beloved. Jealousy does not mean true love.

A CHILD'S LAXATIVE IS "SYRUP OF FIGS"

They love to take it and it doesn't harm the tender little stomach, liver and bowels.

If your little one's tongue is coated, it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When your child is cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or if feverish, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Sick children need to be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!

W. H. ELDREDGE DIES AT HOME IN BELOIT

Former Resident of Afton Succumbs After Long Illness—Funeral Held Today.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Afton, Feb. 2.—Word has been received of the death of William H. Eldredge, which occurred Saturday evening, Jan. 31, at the home of his son, Fred R. Eldredge, 348 Vernon avenue, Beloit, Wis., after an illness of several months with heart trouble. William H. Eldredge, son of the Rev. Daniel and Phoebe Eldredge, was born in Washington county, New York, December 21, 1842. When about twenty years of age he came to Rockton, Illinois, where he remained for about six months, from there coming to a farm half a mile south of Afton, where he lived continuously for forty-three years. Eight years ago last August Mr. and Mrs. Eldredge moved to Beloit, residing at 1020 Fifth street, until two weeks ago when they went to stay at the home of their son because of the feeble health of both Mr. and Mrs. Eldredge. Mr. Eldredge was a faithful member of the Baptist church of this village and a man highly respected and esteemed in the community in which he resided for so many years. After moving to Beloit Mr. Eldredge transferred his membership to the Baptist church at Beloit.

waukee and a wonderful good is being accomplished. Some of the best workers in this work have come from small parishes and ministers, coming into larger circles for effective work. In my course of work, I have found that a sinner does not want anything to do with Christianity either because it requires effort and is too lazy or he has never understood. This last reason is true in the majority of cases. Our work is to put religion squarely before citizens and to let them hear the message that the Master means for them to understand and heed. The real pleasure of being a true Christian is to know that you are being a good fellow, to know that you are helping in the work that you believe in. The lukewarm Christian is too often selfish for his own pleasure than for that of his fellowmen. Because of this I am willing to devote my life, my all, for this noble work.

DEAD MUST AWAIT RESURRECTION DAY TO CONQUER GRAVE

Dead Are Really Dead, Declares Speaker at Myers Theatre Sunday Afternoon.

That the dead are really dead and that the resurrection day must be awaited until immortal life is forthcoming, were theories propounded by G. J. Bryant of Milwaukee in an address on "Victory Over the Grave," under the auspices of the I. B. S. A. at the Myers theatre, Sunday afternoon. In no uncertain terms the speaker set forth from the scriptures that the dead are really dead, and that it is a mistake to suppose, contrary to the Bible, that they are more alive than ever—that like a bird liberated from its cage, the soul has taken its flight to the heavenly courts without waiting for the resurrection. As proof texts, he referred to Ecclesiastes 9:5: "The dead know not anything"; Psalm 146:4: "His breath is gone forth, he returneth to his earth, in that very day his thoughts perish"; Job 14:21: "His sons come to honor, and he knoweth it not; and they are brought low, but he perceiveth it not of them."

Resurrection Necessary. The lecturer then pointed out what he believed to be the only hope of life as laid down in the Scriptures—the resurrection. "There shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and unjust." (Acts 24:15). "If the dead rise not, then they which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished." (1 Cor. 15:16-18)—never to live again. They would be "as though they had not been." (Obadiah 16). The grave, according to the speaker, has for centuries been gradually swallowing up mankind and death has been working in the human race to such an extent that the average length of life has been reduced to approximately thirty-five years. The source of this great River to Death was shown to lie in the fallen Adam, and the victory over the grave to lie in Christ, who took Adam's place, paying the penalty for his sin—death—which is legally to free Adam and his race. In God's appointed time, all will be released from the prison house of death, and be brought forth to life. "As all in Adam die, even so all in Christ shall be made alive."

Broadway Jones

From the Play of
George M. Cohan

REVISED EDITION

Copyright, 1914, by G. M. Cohan Company

After hanging up the receiver he turned gravely to Josie. "There must be some mistake about this," he assured her. Evidently he was seriously worried about the charge of favoritism brought against his firm.

"I have all the correspondence, if you'd like to see it."

"I'd like to very much."

"I'll have it here in a very few minutes. Excuse me."

Fortunately for his telephonic endeavors there had been a period of quiet in the outer factory. But now, as the crowd approached across the vast workroom adjoining, from a visit to the other portions of the plant, the roar of cheering was renewed. He went to the door and opened it, looking into the workroom. Almost at the door were the Judge and Mrs. Spotswood, and, just behind them, Broadway. They were smiling happily and proudly. He was somewhat wilted, but elated. He rushed forward, grasping Wallace's hand, greatly to the latter's surprise.

"I've shaken hands with everybody in the world," said Broadway.

CHAPTER XII.

The celebration over, the mill once more settled down to that industrial peace which is accompanied by the deafening roar of machinery, the clamor of the busy hammer on the nail, sinking home in packing boxes, the shouts of workmen and women forced to thrust their words above the strident melody which surrounds them.

There was new life in the old mill, new confidence had taken place of fear and fierce antagonism in the hearts of hundreds, an esprit de corps had been born suddenly such as had not existed in that factory for many years. In one happy sentence of his bashful speech Broadway had struck a keynote. He had said:

"And—now, you fellows, keep your brains—er—busy with this situation. I have bucked the Trust. I've bucked the Trust for you and the old town. Now if you don't help me beat it to the ropes, stagger it, blind it, pulp it, put it down and out as the all-powerful force in the gum-industry, it's going to wipe me off the map, and when I'm wiped you're wiped."

"I've fought for you, and lots of folks will say I am a fool for doing it. If you start in, and fight for me; if we both fight heart and soul and night and day to win against the wildest competition that was every known in chewing-gum, we WILL win. Anything else means our sponge in the air and a call for doctors and an ambulance, or more likely, undertaker, for Jones' Pepsin Gum, its owner and the men who work for him."

These words had struck home. The workmen had all understood their truth; furthermore, they fully recognized the justice of the burden Broadway laid upon them. Workingmen are fair; they are fairer in old, little towns like Jonesville than they are in great industrial centers, where the element of personality has passed out of industry and the worker is a cog, while the owner is an unseen and mysterious power. The men had shouted wildly that they all would help and meant it. After he had left the shops they had reiterated among themselves the pledges of their fealty, and they meant them.

Sweethearts, that day in the Jones plant, would have scornfully rejected sweethearts who showed any sign of treason to the young proprietor; fathers would have thrashed a son who sneered at Broadway; mothers would have chided daughters (more likely would have spanked them) who offered slurs upon what had occurred. The capacity of mixers, cookers, drawers, molders, cutters, stackers, wrappers, packers, boxers, shippers increased as if by magic. For their hearts were in their work; they were hustling for the boss who had declared his firm intention of hustling for his workers.

Therefore in the works everything buzzed and hummed and banged and clattered with a pleasurable and contagious enthusiasm. In the office there was a warm glow of satisfaction, but Broadway's smile, after the ladies had departed, Clara and her mother to make calls and pass the joyful news about the town triumphantly, Josie to attend to necessary details of her duties, became somewhat weaker than it had been.

He had gone into the fight, but was he going to win the fight? It was fine to fight, undoubtedly, but it would be painful to get licked. His knowledge of the business world was amply represented by the figure "0". The Trust's knowledge of the business world was represented by the figure "0" and then another figure "0", the two preceded by the figure "1".

They knew 100 per cent. of that game of which he knew absolutely nothing. He had defied them, shied his hat into the ring, and now was obliged to chastise them drastically. He sighed, thrust his neck out stiffly, and said, trying to be cocky, but, now that the excitement had died down, realizing that it would be easy to be gloomy:

"Funny Pembroke isn't here." He proposed to scorn that person, he was keyed up to a mighty candle-power of hot contempt, but he wanted to get it at, get it over with, before his energy had cooled away. "He'll be along," said Wallace. "Is it eleven, yet?"

"Just."

Out came Broadway's neck again. He was even rather nervous. "What are we going to say to him when he gets here?"

"Remember that you promised to let me handle him," said Wallace warningly. "He thinks I'm your secretary."

The judge saw that they were worried. "If you boys want to talk things over I'll skip along."

"No, stay here, judge," Broadway urged. "We may need a lawyer."

The judge's face glowed with his satisfaction. "We're just waiting for Pembroke," said Wallace.

"Pembroke? Oh, yes; some of the men told me that he is in town. What's he coming here for?"

"To try to give us a whole lot of money," Wallace answered. "But we're not going to take it." He grinned up at Broadway. "We don't need it, do we?"

Jackson looked at him with mournful eyes, recollecting all the bills he had left behind in New York city. "Don't make me laugh. I didn't sleep well."

The judge saw his young friend's increasing discomfort. "You've made the people of this town very happy today, my boy. You ought to sleep well after this. They owe you a great debt."

Jackson passed the compliment, but winced. "Please don't talk about debts! Let's get on a cheerful subject." With a sickly effort to relieve his mind he turned to Wallace. "How's the barber?"

The judge seized this opportunity to extol a local genius. "Ain't he a nice fellow, though?"

"Yes," said Wallace dryly, "he cut Taft's hair once."

"I shouldn't be surprised," the judge assented heartily. "He's from Hartford."

His remarkable appreciation of the dignity and splendor of the little cities was a continual joy to the two friends, who smiled across his nodding head at one another.

Wallace looked around appreciatively. "The old gentleman had pretty nice offices here."

"Yes," the judge agreed. He nodded toward the desk at which Broadway had carelessly taken his position. "Seems strange not to see him sitting at that desk." He sighed. "First, old Oscar Jones sat there, and he died; then John sat there, and he died; then Andrew sat there, and he died; now—"

Broadway, who had listened to the brief but tragical recital with expanding orbs, got up, and, as he edged away from the too fatal piece of office furniture, eyed it with suspicion and distaste. "That's the last time I'll sit there," he declared.

But Judge Spotswood had not seen the byplay and did not hear the youth's resolve. He was launched on reminiscence. "Every man in the plant loved the old gentleman. They all feel mighty bad. Just think—he was alive 72 hours ago, and now the whole town's in mourning!"

It was at this juncture that Higgins, a new and happy Higgins, entered, cap in hand, respectfully. He was smiling genially. "Excuse me, Mr. Jones, the men want to know if you have any objection to their celebrating tonight?"

He bowed respectfully to Josie, who entered at that moment.

"They're thinking of having a torch-light parade and fireworks in honor of your taking up things at the works. Is it all right?"

The judge beamed happily. What could be more significant of the new day which had dawned on Jonesville than this speech from Higgins, erstwhile the dissatisfied, the complainer? "That's a bully idea!" he exclaimed enthusiastically.

Wallace and Jackson looked at one another in a pleased appreciation. It was Josie who instinctively saw the flaw which had escaped the horde of workmen in the shops and which now escaped the four there in the office. "Why, judge!" said she, shocked and scandalized.

"What's the matter?"

But Josie would not even look at him. In a reproachful voice she turned to Higgins. "Tell the men to do nothing of the kind," she said with emphasis. "Don't they realize what has happened? How can they forget so quickly?"

Now a light burst, even upon Higgins. "Oh, that's so, I'll have to remind them of that!"

Wallace was still puzzled, but Broadway was beginning to understand.

"By George," said the judge, "I forgot all about it myself!"

A bright light bursting upon Wallace, he went to Jones and slapped him on the back. "The king is dead," he quoted, "long live the king!"

Jackson winced. He reflected that this showed the gratitude, the cherishing regard of the workmen. His uncle had just gone to his reward and now, because he, the heir, in a moment of decent impulse, had done the square thing by them, the faithful laborers were quite content to follow their old friend's obsequies by torch-lights borne in glory to the new one while brass bands played ragtime!

Josie had looked up the correspondence with the Empire Advertising Agency, and now gave the letters she had found to Wallace.

FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES

Suffered Three Years. Used Resinol. Now Not A Pimple To Be Seen.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 27, 1912. "I had been troubled for the past three years with pimples which completely covered my face and neck. The pimples would come out, fester up and cause me to pick at them, feeling very uncomfortable. I tried most all kinds of facial creams, but with no effect. I tried a sample of Resinol Soap and Ointment and noticed instant relief. I bought Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment, and began the treatment. After using two jars of Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap, there was not a pimple to be seen, and now my face is as smooth as if there was never a pimple on it." (Signed) Albert Greenburg, 4167 Frankford Ave.

For eighteen years Resinol has been a favorite doctor's prescription and household remedy for itching troubles, skin eruptions, dandruff, red, rough faces and hands, scales, piles, etc. Stop itching instantly. Sold by all druggists. Resinol Soap, 25c. Ointment, 50c. and $1.00, but you can try them without cost—just write for liberal samples to Dept. 18-M, Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

He looked at them, frowned, shook his head and bit his lip, very much astonished, very much annoyed. "It's the Empire, all right," he was forced to admit. But before he had a chance to read the letters, Sam came in, strapping like a little elephant, throw back his massive head, half closed his eyes and roared:

"Mr. Pembroke and Mr. Leary—to see Mr. Jones."

"Tell them to come right in," said Broadway. His neck thrust this way and that—two thrusts in honor of big business.

Wallace smiled. "Judge," he said, "did you ever see a man refuse to take a million and a half?"

"Not yet."

"Well, watch the little professor, over there." He nodded toward Broadway. Then, to the man of whom he had been speaking: "Sit at that desk and look business-like."

"In that chair?" asked Broadway with determination. "Not after what he said! And then he sat there, and he died. No, I'll die standing up."

"Shall I go?" asked Josie.

"No; please don't."

"Waiter," asked the impatient customer, "do you call this an oyster stew?"

"Yessuh," replied Erastus Pinkley.

Theodore Lane, who resided at the home of his parents, had a toothache the other morning. It was a bad toothache too, and Theodore let

"Why, the oyster in this stew isn't big enough to flavor it."

"He wasn't put in to flavor it, suh. He's just supposed to christen it."

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets. These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to do strong liquids, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "gulliness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "foggy" and "heavy." Note how they "perk up" the spirits. At 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, Ohio. All druggists.

"I don't know," answered the youngster.

"It's out."

Mrs. Pankhurst, before sailing from New York, talked to a reporter about the comparative deceitfulness of men and women. "Women," said the reporter, "are more deceitful."

"No," said Mrs. Pankhurst, "men are worse. Look at the way they deceive their wives."

"Do you claim," the reporter asked, "that men should never deceive their wives?"

Mrs. Pankhurst smiled and tossed her head. "Oh, no," she said. "How could the average man ever get a wife if he didn't deceive her?"
